FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: Announcement – Humphrey Acquires Medical/Industrial Valve Products from Curtiss-Wright Corporation

June 23, 2015

Contact: Mike Hammond, Director of Product Management and Marketing

As communicated to North American distributors June 12, 2015 at our National Sales Meeting, Humphrey is pleased to announce the acquisition of the “Medical and Industrial Valve Products” from Curtiss-Wright Corporation. Specifically, these products include two product families of Liquid Isolation (Inert) Valves, a Liquid Isolation (Inert) Proportional Valve and a premium performance Proportional Control Valve Series for air and inert gases.

Perhaps you may recognize these unique valve products from under the South Bend Controls brand and the “Servoid” trademark for their premium proportional valve. Curtiss-Wright, an aerospace company, acquired South Bend Controls in 2011, for the aerospace products of South Bend’s technology. With no interest in the Medical/Industrial Valves, Curtiss-Wright has come to this agreement with Humphrey.

Humphrey will be moving the production lines, inventory and jobs back to America from Mexico within the next 45 days and plan to begin marketing these products under the Humphrey brand in the September/October time period.

More information to follow as the introduction period nears.
